Preface

In recent years, a growing number of English learners have been involved in attending international exams such as IELTS to pursue their educational and occupational goals. However, some gaps seem to baffle applicants in their studies. To us, one of these on demand areas is providing standard and up to date instructions and samples. Although a precise and meticulously planned syllabus is being offered in our classes, many applicants in remote areas and other cities seek for our material and guide line. That alone is enough reason to be dedicated to supply suitable sources for students.

As all fields are getting more specialized and compartmentalized on a daily basis, we tend to focus on IELTS frame works. However we need to note that essay samples and structures can be referred to by TOEFL applicants as well.

By reviewing the general trend of IELTS exams in recent years you are struck by this fact that assessing criteria have got tougher and a precise look over writing components is of paramount importance. So, the present book is an effort to offer writing samples to provide a fertile ground for applicants to analyze standard writings. This is especially the case for two view essays, for there is shortage of valid information and sources over these, you need to first know about its principles and basis then go over samples to fully grasp what to do in your works.

The final words, as this book is a supplementary material for my classes, I do welcome any chance to give consultation to applications in case required. You can contact me at provided numbers in the book.
