INTRODUCTION

English Result Plus is a supplementary book to English Result, a new rich general English course by Mark Hancock and Annie McDonald.

English Result is taught in many language institutes due to its rich syllabus and supplementary materials. Unfortunately, language learners are not often provided with English Result supplementary materials such as the DVD worksheets, photocopiable activity sheets, websearch sheets and I can checklist sheets. To provide remedy for this shortcoming, English Result Plus has collected all English Result supplementary materials learners need to facilitate and reinforce their learning process. As a second issue, English Result weblinks are mostly filtered or expired so the learners are not able to use them well. To solve the problem, new websearch worksheets are designed to give learners more authentic practice on what they have learned. Concerning lexis learning, a list of new words and collocations is provided to assist students to review. That was carried out through contextualizing English Result new words, providing the learners with key sentences and patterns. A part of this book is allocated to the end-of-unit tests. Right after each lesson, the learners are able to assess their learning and progress in terms of language skills and system. The next part of the book is the writing section. With the intention of stressing process writing and in order to help learners record their writing papers, two pages are allocated to learners' writing and revision. The mistakes students make are very important for language teachers and learners. Teachers can review them as a guide to see what they need to focus on more. Similarly learners can review them to avoid the same mistakes and boost their correct English awareness. To do so, learners are provided with a Mistake List to record their own and peers' oral and written errors and correct forms.
