Preface

"Reading and writing should be pleasurable for students, not just a boredom" Anonymous

Correct and good writing is not an innate ability and nearly all students have to learn to do it very much the way they acquire any skill - by study and practice. Educated people and university students are expected to write fairly well. You, as a university student (undergraduate or graduate) have to write term papers, essays and finally thesis or dissertation. Your ability to write correctly and to select the right words in your writing have great effects on the readers. Having a vast vocabulary is very important to write effectively in all areas of life. The students definitely should lead a lot of good pieces of writing by great writers, observe their choice of words, and then, the students should suit the language to the occasion. Attempts have been made to select interesting and poor passages for students to read and enjoy their reading, and ult mately they will be encouraged to write well-organized pieces of writing.
